One morning as we were returning from a long walk I saw advancing that always novel sight to American eyes, a woman and a dog harnessed together, dragging a cart. In this instance the cart was full of vegetables. It was evidently a market frau taking produce to town. Now. Hector was a true knight, valiant, loyal and gentle: but he possessed also that other char-acteristic of knighthood, he brooked no intruders; and no sooner did one of his kind appear than he challenged him to combat. I knew this and trembled, but Unluckily, however, that plebeign dog as he approached presumed to give a defiant bark, which settled his fate. Instantly Hector gave one spring, seized his boastful adversary and shook him out of his harness in less time than it takes to tell it, overturning the cart and scattering the vegetables in every direction. I was distressed beyond measure and called Hector in the most commanding tones I could assume. Then I coaxed him, all of which he entirely ignored. Meanwhile the other one of the span was by no

A Word for the Wheelers.

EDITORS HERALD:-If a man, morally, mentally and physically perfect, was placed amongst the vicious and ignorant greasers and cowboys on the plains tantalized as a tenderfoot, a nuisance fraud and fired out of camp. In the zation and refinement, Christ himself would be similarly treated by the bonton, as well as the inmates and patrons of dives, dens and doggeries.

Upon the same principle and from the same causes, the dudes, drummers. pimps and demireps of the city, speak contemptuously of the country "Jake." Therefore, we are not surprised at the vicious criticism and the senseless slurs that have been aimed at Hon, Wesley Crowe. We were surprised, however, that such slurs should appear in respectable, first-class newspapers, edited by first-class gentlemen.

Mr. Crow needs no defense and asks no vindication. What we propose to write is for the benefit of those who are responsible for the publication of such slurs; it is good medicine and will do practice old-fashioned honesty and fail to follow the fashion in dudish dress and damnable deviltry.

Now, Messrs, Editors, from your point of view, I am about the meanest Republican in Ohio county.

I voted for Mr. Crow because he is a good man, and because those three-fora-quarter fellows who are running the with contempt.
